An example of Rubric marking

Overview:

This guide will show you how to make the Rubric / Checklist / Marking guide as a template, and share it in other assignment activities.

What to know:

If you want to reuse or share a Rubric/Checklist/Marking guide in different activities or across a module, you can make the original rubric as a template so that people can search it. Please be noted that the action will allow all the teachers search, see and use your template.

The guide will use rubric as an example.

Step 4: Double check / edit the rubric

Now you will see the rubric is added to the activity. You can double check it or make some updates.

Tips:

What is the Rubric title/name?

The rubric name or title should be the one you created when you define it. If you can't remember it, you can click "Edit the current form definition" to check for details. The name can be used to search for the template.
